Raymie is a 50-something singer/songwriter from Glasgow, Scotland, whose latest album, "Rocky River", is a mixture of; Bluegrass, Southern Rock and Pop Country, (An Americana melting pot)! An accomplished multi-instrumentalist with a strong vocal style that has been likened in the past to; Steve Earl, Tom Waits, and Van Morrison, he writes songs, which tell stories. Stories of missed opportunities, absent lovers, and general observations of the world, seen through his well-travelled eyes. He spent years travelling and touring as a sideman and backing musician for other acts and shows. All the time writing down lyrics and recording bits-and-pieces of songs on whatever he had at hand. Slowly building up a catalogue of material he felt he needed to get recorded and out there to share with the world. "Rocky River", is the third recording to come out of these songs. Following on from the earlier, "Weather Permitting" album, and the EP, "4x4". There are still quite a number of songs which he hopes to get recorded in the near future. All the recordings are self-produced and recorded.

"Rocky River", is submitted with a view to obtaining review, and/or consideration for inclusion in your show/playlist.
